

DOMAINE VILLA DRIA

SOUTH-WEST | FRANCE

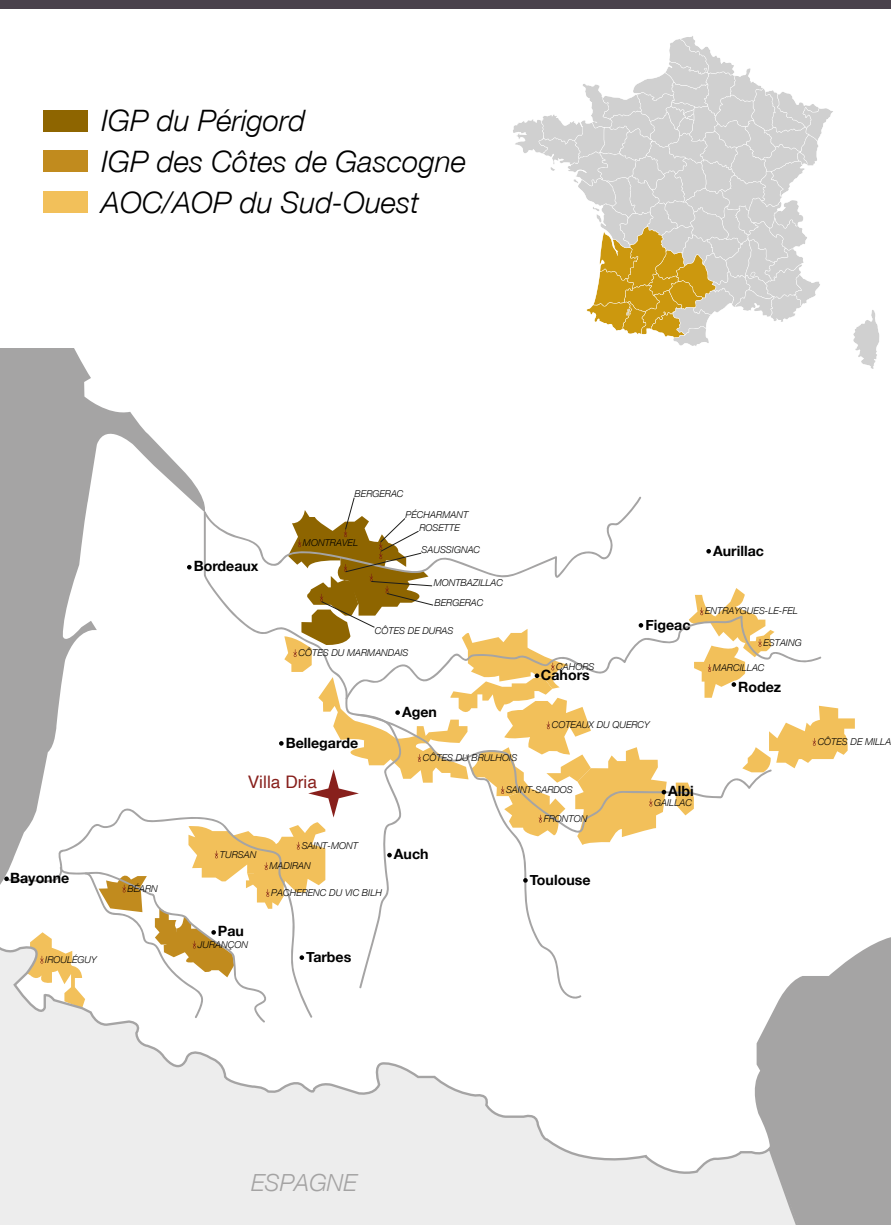

Located in the heart of the Côtes de Gascogne, Domaine Villa Dria is named in reference to the great estates once held in this region by the Romans, known as "Villas," combined with the name of winemaker Jean-Pierre Drieux, which was transformed into Dria. Coming from a family of winemakers, he took over the family estate and modernized it with eco-design principles.

"Deeply convinced that there can be no healthy wine without healthy vines, I have based my various practices, from the vineyard to the cellar, around geobiology and methods derived from biodynamics. Our wines are now recognized for their very low levels of sulfur and residual sugars. They share a common thread of tension, freshness, and fruitiness."

WHAT WE LIKE

∞ A truly interesting approach to sweet white wine from the South-West. The cuvées "Jardin Secret" and "Lune de Miel" are more than just an alternative: they represent a new standard in Gascogne wine; the sugar is integrated, the wine is balanced, and enjoyment is accessible!
